Mrs. Carolyn Epperson was washing her car at her West End apartment when her 1958 Russellville High School class ring slipped off her finger and was lost. That was 1962. When she learned a friend's father enjoyed looking for such things with a metal detector, she suggested he try. Ottis Murphy, a veteran treasure hunter, went to the apartment recently and within 20 minutes had found the ring, buried under three inches of earth.
